EDUCATION

University of Pennsylvania Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
PhD in Linguistics 2000

- Concentration in Sociolinguistics
- Dissertation title: The Effect of Geographic Mobility on the Retention of a Local Dialect
- Dissertation committee: William Labov (chair), Gillian Sankoff, and Gene Buckley
- Dissertation used ethnographic and sociolinguistic interviews to collect linguistic data from two groups of natives of a single town: lifelong residents and those who had moved away from the town as adults. The raw data was subjected to acoustic and impressionistic measures, and then analyzed quantitatively. There was little or no difference in linguistic production between the groups, but linguistic perception was significantly different.
- Doctoral examinations passed in Anthropological Linguistics, Historical and Comparative Linguistics, Phonology and Morphology, and Sociolinguistics

University of Maryland College Park College Park, Maryland
BA in Linguistics 1994

- Senior concentration in Phonology
- Degree received magna cum laude

Prince George's Community College Largo, Maryland
AA in General Studies 1989

- Degree received with honors

PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

University of Central Florida Orlando, Florida
Assistant Professor 2003 to present

- Conducted research and taught courses in linguistics. Supervised student research. Administered the minor in linguistics. Performed professional service as a member of the Department of English.

Brigham Young University Provo, Utah
Assistant Professor 2000 to 2003
Instructor 1999 to 2000

- Conducted research and taught courses in linguistics. Supervised student research. Performed professional service as a member of the Department of English and the Department of Linguistics and English Language.

University of Pennsylvania Philadelphia, Pennsylvania
Research Fellow 1996 to 1997

- Performed acoustic analysis of the vowel systems of selected speakers for the TELSUR/Atlas of North American English Project.

University of Maryland College Park College Park, Maryland
Teaching Assistant 1993

- Graded papers, counseled students, and prepared and delivered occasional lectures.

FIELDWORK AND ARCHIVAL EXPERIENCE

Ethnographic and sociolinguistic interviewing

People's Republic of China

2008

- Conducted anthropological and linguistic fieldwork as a member of a team of students and faculty documenting traditional folk arts in rural (Shandong Province) and urban (Beijing) China.

Florida

2004; 2006; 2008

- Trained groups of students to do linguistic fieldwork, and coordinated their efforts. All fieldwork was conducted in Central Florida (mostly in Orlando) with the goal of developing a baseline understanding of Central Florida English to facilitate future research.

- Maryland 1997 to 1999; 2002
- Conducted sociolinguistic interviews with residents of a Southern Maryland town investigating linguistic perception and production, focusing on social factors relating to linguistic changes over time.
- United States (multiple sites) 1997 to 1998
- Sociolinguistic interviews conducted at many different sites with former residents of the same Southern Maryland town listed in the entry above, with the same goals.
- Pennsylvania 1994 to 1995
- Conducted ethnographic and sociolinguistic interviews with residents of a South Philadelphia neighborhood as part of a group investigating qualitative and quantitative linguistic patterns, focusing particularly on social factors influencing language use.
- Archival research
- Utah 2000 to present
- An ongoing large project using an archive of religious addresses held by Brigham Young University's Harold B. Lee Library in Provo, Utah. Project involves tracking the phonetic production of individual speakers over large segments of their adult lifespans to investigate linguistic changes that occur along with aging.
- Maryland 2002
- Used recordings of oral histories held by the Southern Maryland Studies Center in La Plata, Maryland to investigate phonetic production by residents of part of Southern Maryland born near the turn of the twentieth century.

COURSES TAUGHT

University of Central Florida

Orlando, Florida

Composition I

Summer 2004

- Introductory writing course for entering students, requiring students to use personal experiences and secondary sources to develop arguments on current issues.

Cross-Cultural Communication

Fall 2003, 2005; Summer 2007

- Developed an approach using intensive simulations of intercultural contact combined with reading primary research in the field. Course taught online Summer 2007.

History of the English Language

Fall 2003, 2004; Spring, Summer 2005; Spring, Fall 2006;

Spring 2008; Fall 2008; to be taught Spring 2009

- Developed an approach combining rigorous training in general historical/comparative methods with specific exercises on aspects of the development of English. Course taught online Spring 2008.

Honors Composition I

Spring 2008

- Introductory writing course for entering students, focusing primarily on the genre-appropriate use of evidence to support arguments.

- Honors Composition II Spring 2004
- Introductory composition course focusing on the design and development of written arguments. Developed a section using materials from the generative semantics controversy of the 1970s to provide case studies on the rhetoric of argument.
- Linguistics Fall 2004; Spring 2006; Spring 2008; to be taught Spring 2009
- Graduate seminar in linguistics, primarily for literature and rhetoric students. Developed an approach involving fieldwork to investigate linguistic behavior in local speech communities. Course taught online Spring 2008.
- Linguistics and Literature Spring 2005, 2007; Fall 2008
- Advanced undergraduate course focusing on the application of sociolinguistic methods to (primarily electronic) texts. Developed an approach resulting in students creating a small TEI-compliant tagged corpus. Course taught online Fall 2008.
- Methods of Bibliography and Research Fall 2005
- Introductory course for all graduate English majors involving instruction in archival, fieldwork, and library research methods. Developed a unit where students assisted on a research project under the mentorship of a faculty member.
- Modern English Grammar Spring 2004; Fall 2006; Spring 2007
- Developed an approach contrasting traditional and modern theoretical approaches to syntax aimed primarily at aspiring editors and educators.
- Principles of Linguistics Fall 2004, 2005, 2006; 2008
- Introductory linguistics survey, covering core subfields of modern linguistics. Aimed primarily at students minoring in linguistics and majoring in education and English.
- Brigham Young University Provo, Utah
- Grammar and Usage Fall 1999; Winter 2000, 2001, 2003
- Developed an approach contrasting traditional and modern theoretical approaches to syntax. Course aimed primarily at aspiring editors.
- History of the English Language Fall 2000; Spring 2003
- Developed an approach combining rigorous training in general historical/comparative methods with specific exercises on aspects of the development of English.
- Introduction to Language Fall 1999; Winter, Fall 2000; Winter, Fall 2001; Winter, Fall 2002
- Introductory linguistics survey aimed at beginning linguistics, TESOL, and English majors. Developed an approach involving fieldwork along with traditional problem set and examination assessments.
- Language, Mind, and World Winter 2003
- Introductory linguistics course aimed at students outside of linguistics. Developed (as part of a committee) and piloted an approach centered around debunking linguistic myths while teaching core linguistic concepts.
- The Senior Course: Dialect in Literature Winter 2002
- Developed a section of the English major senior capstone course to bridge literary and linguistic approaches to language, dealing primarily with the literary use of regional and ethnic varieties. Students used published studies, including dialect atlases, to gauge the authenticity of literary dialects.
- Sociolinguistics Fall 2002; Winter 2003
- Developed a graduate seminar on theories and approaches to issues of variation and change in language, involving fieldwork contrasting speech communities in a single urbanized area.

- Varieties of English Fall 2001
- Graduate seminar on the development of language varieties generally, focusing on English. Students conducted research on the development of specific varieties using materials from previously published studies, particularly linguistic atlases.
- University of Maryland College Park College Park, Maryland
- Language and Mind Spring 1993
- Graded papers and counseled students as a teaching assistant in an introductory course for linguistics majors. Delivered occasional lectures.
- Syntax I Fall 1993
- Graded papers and counseled students as a teaching assistant in a first-semester course in transformational and minimalist syntax. Delivered occasional lectures.

SELECTED PROFESSIONAL SERVICE

- Linguistic Society of America Washington, DC
- Language in the School Curriculum Committee, Member 2008 to present
- Conducted outreach to link the Linguistic Society of America with scholarly and professional associations that focus on K-12 education. (Term ends 2010.)
- Undergraduate Program Advisory Committee, Member 2005 to 2008
- Developed aids for faculty teaching undergraduate linguistics courses. Developed outlets for presentations of undergraduate research in linguistics. Improved internet-based resources for undergraduate students interested in linguistics.
- University of Central Florida Orlando, Florida
- Honors and Awards Committee, Chair 2008 to present
- Member 2004 to 2007
- Administered the Department of English's departmental scholarship and honors programs. Reviewed applications for departmental honors and scholarships.
- Linguistics Committee, Chair 2003 to present
- Administered the minor in Linguistics. Managed linguistics course offerings.
- ChinaVine Steering Committee, Member 2007 to present
- Assisted with design of website documenting traditional Chinese folk arts. Conducted fieldwork in China to document artists' products and methods. Responsible for most of the copyediting for the site. Currently developing a style guide for the project.
- Cognitive Sciences Steering Committee, Member 2003 to present
- Monitored progress of Cognitive Sciences graduate and undergraduate programs. Involved in planning for Cognitive Sciences PhD program proposal.
- Brigham Young University Provo, Utah
- Linguistics Core Restructuring Committee, Member 2002 to 2003
- Developed plans for eliminating overlap between core courses in major curricula administered by the Department of Linguistics and English Language. Presented recommendations for curriculum changes. Piloted restructured course (Language, Mind, and World).
